

Youth Justice Advisory Committee Annual Report 2016-17

NORTHERN TERRITORY
GOVERNMENT

Hon Dale Wakefield
Minister for Territory Families
Parliament House
Darwin NT 0810
August 2017

Dear Minister

The Youth Justice Advisory Committee (YJAC), in accordance with section 213 of the Youth Justice Act 2005 (the Act), is pleased to present the 2016-17 YJAC Annual Report.

In the reporting period, YJAC's involvement in the Youth Justice System (YJS), as per section 204 of the Act, has included the monitoring and evaluation of the operation of the Act, advising you on needs and issues within the YJS, and adherence to the Act and the sector to inform government policy and program direction. These activities have occurred in line with the change in government, and new a department overseeing Youth Justice, with Territory Families requesting an increased YJAC involvement in reforms to youth justice and child protection. The Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory has also been a relevant consideration.

The overall functions of the YJAC have been constrained due to the resignation of members, resulting in the YJAC not having a quorum for several meetings. This is mainly due to Northern Territory government (NTG) appointed members resigning because of a conflict of interest with the change in NTG departments overseeing Youth Justice and community committee member's workloads impacting on their family lives, their abilities to attend meetings, and their capacity to engage with other committee members outside designated meetings due to the same constraints.

The YJAC has resolved these issues with the recruitment and appointment of new YJAC members, community and NTG member representatives, as per section 206 of the Act, to ensure that the YJAC committee member composition is more representative of the NT community and regions as per the Act. Additionally, the new members are involved in the YJS at a 'grassroots' level, and they are committed to their involvement in monitoring, addressing and advertising on young people's involvement in the YJS.

YJAC members have also been discussing the need to involve the NTG with discussions into the establishment of a NT Youth Peak and the representation of a youth peak on YJAC.

The primary focus of YJAC meetings, discussions, considerations, research and correspondence in 2016-17 has involved:

- Proposing justice reinvestment program models as an alternative to a young person's involvement in the YJS, especially in regional and remote communities.
- Proposing alternatives to detention to address a young person's offending behaviours through a regionalised case management approach with residential bail support programs, transitions from residential rehabilitation and young people at risk of being homeless, as per the previous government's Youth Justice Framework, 2015-17.
- Advocating for the YJAC to continue negotiating with Territory Families (TF), the YJs and the Minister; proposing to monitor, evaluate and advise on all aspects of TF, YJ, operations as per the Youth Justice Framework 2015-17 and the Act, and proposing that YJAC Secretariat position be independent from TF.
- Monitoring the effectiveness of diversion programs with pre- and post-court referrals to diversion programs to address a young person's recidivist offending, including re-establishing and exploring a Restorative Justice approach to youth justice issues.
- Monitoring, supporting and evaluating the Responsible Adult Support Program (RASP).
- Monitoring alternatives to detention programs and services through guidelines, programs, service delivery and evaluation as per sections 204, functions and 205, powers of the Act.

- Advocating for adequately resourced early intervention and prevention programs in regional and remote communities, within a case management framework to circumvent offending related to volatile substance and other substance misuse.
- Inspecting the Youth Detention Centres as per section 204 of the Act.
- Identifying and advocating for regional and community-based solutions to address social disadvantages, mental health issues and disabilities for young people involved in the youth justice and child protection systems.

The YJAC has also had involvement and input into TF's new Youth Outreach and Re-engagement Teams (YORET), Territory Families' Dual Pathways program and the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory.

The YJAC anticipates that this focus could be redefined with the findings of the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory to be handed down in November 2017, in the context of the YJAC's proposed input. This is an opportunity for the YJAC to be proactive with the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory recommendations and proposed Territory Families reforms and its involvement with Territory Families, as indicated by Territory Families CEO at the June 2017 YJAC meeting.

I appreciate the efforts of all YJAC committee members where possible, due to their busy workloads, and I recognise the secretariat support for the YJAC throughout this reporting period and previously. YJAC members wish the former secretariat all the best for his future endeavours.

In accordance with the Act, I verify to you that the 2016-17 YJAC annual report is an accurate record of YJAC's involvement in the YJS from 2016-17.

Yours sincerely,

Stewart Willey

Introduction

The Act commenced in 2005 and the establishment of the Youth Justice Advisory Committee commenced in 2008.

Part 13 of the Act provides for the establishment of the Youth Justice Advisory Committee (YJAC).

On 1 July 2008, responsibility for the Act (except Part 3 and provisions relating to youth detention) transferred from the Minister for Justice and Attorney-General; Department of Justice to the Minister for Children and Families; Department of Children and Families.

On 1 July 2012, responsibility for the Act (except Part 3 and provisions relating to youth detention) was transferred from the former Minister for Children and Families and Department of Children and Families to the Minister for Justice in accordance with the Review of the Northern Territory Youth Justice System: Report September 2011.

August 2012 saw a change in government and responsibility for the Act transferred to the Department of Correctional Services. The Youth Justice Division, Department of Correctional Services was responsible for providing administrative and secretariat support to the YJAC.

In 2016 the change in government resulted in most Youth Justice areas being transferred to Territory Families and their legislative reforms to transfer additional NTCS responsibilities to TF e.g. bail and supervision orders under NTCS to TF and the powers of the CEO for TF, to be in line with commissioner of NTCS.

YJAC current membership

The committee must reflect the composition of the community at large and comprise government, non-government and community representatives. The terms of office are for three years or as stated in the Instrument of Appointment. Members are eligible for reappointment.

The current YJAC committee member composition is more representative of the Northern Territory community and regions with the recruitment of members and their involvement in the YJS, as per the Act. They are committed to monitoring, advising and addressing young people's involvement in the YJS.

- (5) The committee must keep records of its meetings.

The YJAC held two face to face meetings in the 2016-17 financial year, in November 2016, including an inspection of Loves Creek SYBC, run by BushMob, and in June 2017. There was attempt to hold a meeting in February but a quorum of members was not achieved. This resulted in recruitment of new YJAC members that were more representative of the Northern Territory to adhere to the committee composition, as per the Act.

Following each meeting, minutes are prepared by the secretariat and distributed to members. However, due to the secretariat's workload with NTDCS, minutes for the financial year 2015/16 were only distributed to members in August, 2016.

YJAC meetings schedule 2016-17

Time/date	Meeting type	Duration	Quorum
16 August 2016	Teleconference	0900 – 1300	Yes
20 October 2016	Teleconference	1200 – 1230	Yes
17 November 2016	Face-to-face (Alice Springs)	0830 - 1530	Yes
19 – 20 June 2017	Face-to-face (Darwin)	0830 – 1530 (both days)	Yes

Note: The committee attempted to meet several times during the period January – May 2017. However, due to the resignations of several members, the committee was not able to lock in dates where a quorum could be achieved. New members were appointed in June 2017 and the committee agreed to a more frequent meeting schedule for 2017-18.

Section 212 quorum

At a meeting of the committee, half the number of members appointed constitutes a quorum.

Section 213 annual report

- (1) The committee must, as practicable after 30 June in each year, and in any event not later than the next following 30 September, give the Minister a report of the activities on the committee during the preceding financial year.
- (2) The minister must table a copy of the report in the Legislative Assembly within five sitting days of the assembly after receiving it.

YJAC's focus areas for 2016-17

The YJAC focused on the following areas of the YJS, to reduce and cease young people's involvement in crime through alternative programs and service provision to address their offending behaviours, in particular by utilising a through-care case management approach prior to, during and after their YJS involvement and concerning an early intervention and prevention framework:

- Researching and proposing justice reinvestment program models in regional and remote communities, evidenced based programs and services of best practice as an alternative to detention and electronic monitoring.
- Alternatives and evaluating the cost of electronic monitoring of young people, the pros and cons, especially for young people living in regional and remote communities.
- Proposing proactive alternatives to detention to address a young person's offending behaviours through a case management approach to address their needs, issues and barriers through the establishment of residential bail support programs for young people who have no residential alternatives to bail, as per the proposed Youth Justice Framework, and access to case management services in regional and remote communities.
- Advocating for YJAC to continue negotiating with NTDCS, YJ and proposing to monitor, evaluate and advise on all aspects of NTDCS, YJ, operations and functions as per the proposed Youth Justice Framework.
- Monitoring the Responsible Adult Support Program (RASP).
- Monitoring the Early Intervention Youth Boot Camp Program (EIYBC) guidelines, programs and service delivery.
- Ongoing monitoring of section 64 referrals, as per the Act, from the Youth Justice Court to diversion programs, due to recent Supreme Court ruling.
- Reinstating the Youth Justice Issues Register for mainly non government organisations (NGOs), working in the YJS at the 'grass roots' level, the Central Australian Youth Justice Committee (CAYJ) and the Top End Youth Justice Coalition, have the ability to voice their issues, needs and concerns in YJS for YJAC to discuss, address and propose solutions that can be raised with minister.
- YJAC inspecting the Don Dale and Alice Springs Youth Detention Centres and BushMob's Loves Creek Sentenced Youth Wilderness Camp facility pilot program and discussing their findings and observations with the Minister as compared to:
 - Part eight (youth detention centres) of the Act.
 - The Australasian Juvenile Justice Administrator's standards and guidelines for young people in detention, especially for young people on remand.
 - The United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty (Beijing Rules)
 - The United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-Custodial Measures (Tokyo Rules), notably for young people on remand because they have no residential bail alternatives prior to sentencing.
 - The United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice (Havana Rules).

YJAC is proposing an independent body or person, such as YJAC to inspect a detention centre, as per section 168 of the Act, above and beyond the Elder Visiting Program and Official Visitors Program, on a regular basis, not only when a centre is in crisis.

Conclusion

YJAC members commend and respect the Territory Families' involvement of YJAC in the current government reforms in youth justice with Territory Families regional solutions, especially in an early intervention/ prevention framework and supported residential bail support programs, with YOREO support, as an alternative to detention, for young people who have no residential bail program alternatives and the inclusion of YJAC in an oversight of these proposed programs and services.

YJAC supports the establishment of a consistent practice philosophy throughout the various operational areas of the youth justice system. This philosophy should recognise the principles of restorative justice and the need to divert young people from the YJS at the earliest opportunity. Diversion and through-care planning strategies need to be provided at every stage of the YJS from first contact with police through to post-detention.

The principles and the provisions of the Act do not require change, what is required is a commitment to implement and adhere to the Act and to resource the YJ sector accordingly, especially with an early intervention, prevention focus, in a case management framework involving the young person's family members and elder and respected person engagement, pre sentence conferencing, as per section 84 of the Act, with elder and respected community engagement and involvement, proactive diversion programs being delivered with through-care plans being developed, in a case management framework, appropriate through-care plans being developed with young people in detention and residential bail support programs, to reduce and cease a young person's offending through the involvement and empowerment of young people, responsible family members, elders and respected persons, community members and proactive youth service providers, at every stage that the young people are involved in the YJS.

This is to ensure that the YJS does not become the parent/responsible adult dis-empowering family members, elders and respected persons and/or community members.

The current composition of the YJAC committee membership ensures that there is 'grassroots' expertise and experience and is related to young people's involvement in the YJS.

This allows YJAC to have the capability to advocate and lobby the NTG and monitor YJ in Territory Families for resourced best practice programs and services to cease or reduce a young person's involvement in the YJS with through-care plans that have family members and Elders and Respected community members involvement.

YJAC should be the 'voice' to the Minister to inform and promote change within the YJS and advocate for YJ programs of best practice; early intervention, diversion and through-care planning in a case management framework for post court and detention experiences and bail support programs, as an alternative to detention.

However, this focus could be redefined with the findings and recommendations of the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory in 2017.

Summary of key activities

YJAC's involvement in the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory

YJAC's involvement in the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory commenced after the Royal Commission's terms of reference were formalised.

This was relevant due to YJAC's involvement in the YJ and child protection systems, since the implementation of the Act in 2006 and the establishment of YJAC in 2008.

YJAC involvement in the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory included:

The Chairperson received a notice to produce as follows:

- Section 206 of the Act (Members); the details of any person appointed by the minister, (including any of the Minister's predecessors), to be a member of the Youth Justice Advisory Committee, during the relevant period, the last 10 years, under section 206 of the Act and documents, anything on which there is writing; and anything on which there are marks, figures, symbols or perforations having a meaning for persons qualified to interpret them; and anything from which sounds, images or writings can be reproduced with or without the aid of anything else and a map, plan, drawing or photograph.
- Section 211 of the Act (Meetings); any notes, reports, records of committee meetings or other documents prepared by any Youth Justice Advisory Committee member during their term in office, for the last 10 years.

YJAC members also participated in Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory community consultations in Alice Springs/Central Australia, Tennant Creek and the Barkly Region and the Katherine Region and provided their feedback to the YJAC meetings for other members' consideration.

A meeting with Commissioner Gooda in Tennant Creek was facilitated by the YJAC Chairperson with the Youth Forum Steering Committee to ensure that the Commissioner had a youth perspective on the needs, issues and barriers that young people are facing in the YJ and Child Protection Systems.

YJAC's chairperson was also invited to join the Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory roundtable in Alice Springs in February 2017. The Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory roundtable was attended by professionals, consultants, educators, researchers and 'grassroots' workers in the Youth Justice and Child Protection Systems from across Australia.

The roundtable discussions concerned presentations of evidenced-based programs of best practice, especially with an early intervention and prevention focus to the youth justice and child protection systems. On the other hand, participants at the roundtable also identified pertinent issues and came up with solutions including therapeutic programs and services and through-care models involving responsible adults and elders.

The Royal Commission into the Protection and the Detention of Children in the Northern Territory convened a full-day service provider 'Roundtable' in Alice Springs on 24 February 2017 to discuss youth diversion and alternatives to youth detention. The purposes of the Roundtable were to allow service providers to explore together:

- the principles they would want to underpin the NT juvenile justice system
- diversion programs already available in the NT and other jurisdictions
- effective ways for the community to be involved in diversion options
- how remoteness impacts on diversion options.

Topics covered during the Roundtable sessions included:

- Diversion by police
- Diversion from the courts
- Diversion from remand
- Diversion in sentencing
- Diversion from detention
- Diversion programs in the Northern Territory
- Diversion program in other jurisdictions
- Community engagement in diversion
- Key principles underpinning youth detention in the Northern Territory
- Alternative detention models (therapeutic, trauma-informed, community models) in other jurisdictions
- Community involvement in planning and implementing alternatives to detention
- Design of facilities.

A summary of YJAC's input to this Roundtable follows.(Please note these issues and themes are in no particular order)

Positive aspects of the Act as alternatives to detention.

Provisions in the Act for:

- diversion (sections 37 – 45 of the Act),
- post-court diversion (section 64 of the Act),
- approved programs (section 90 of the Act),
- good behaviour orders (section 91 of the Act),
- community work orders (sections 93 - 97 of the Act),
- pre-sentence reports (sections 69 - 75 of the Act),
- pre-sentence conferencing (section 84 of the Act),
- suspended sentences (sections 98 and 98A of the Act),
- alternative sentencing options to detention (sections 99 – 110 of the Act),
- operiodic detention orders (sections 111 – 120 of the Act).

Sections of the Northern Territory Youth Justice Act 2005 and Youth Justice System that need enhancement

Youth Justice Act

There are prior incidents where the Act was not being adhered to by police and the court system. This is with respect to young people not having a responsible adult present, sections 18, 19, 23 and 35 of the Act, when being interviewed and when bail is (sections 83, 134 of the Act and 37B of Bail Act 2011) granted/revoked and during appearances in court. Young people do not understand criminal proceedings including bail conditions (sections 15, 61, 150 of the Act) and need these explained to them in a language they understand in relation to their responsibilities.

Separate youth justice court

Throughout the NT with the exception of Darwin and Alice Springs, bush circuit courts have no separate court facilities for adults and young people's court matters (section 26 of the Act requires separation from adults wherever practicable). In all cases, the local court judge simply states we are closing the Local Court and opening the Youth Justice Court, or vice versa. However, the same people are present in the courtroom, namely adults. The only closed court proceedings are for children in care. This is not done in other Australian jurisdictions.

Numerous adjournments

- There are several examples of lengthy adjournments for young people. This is especially the case when young people are given the option of diversion or they are on post court diversion, section 64 referrals under the Act. These matters can take a least three adjournments until the young person is granted diversion and then three more court appearances whilst they are on a diversion program. This process can take at least six to eight months with about eight court appearances, until the diversion is completed.
- The aim of the diversion program is to keep young people out of the youth justice system. However, the current process is involving young people more and more, and is clogging up the court system unnecessarily.
- Plea bargaining with the prosecution to negotiate charges also causes unnecessary delays. This usually takes up to three adjournments before the matter is finalised.

Diversion

- All young people on post-court diversion (sections 37 – 45 of the Act) are also on bail with the same or similar conditions, especially curfews. This appears to be ineffective. If they breach their bail, they will fail their diversion program.
- Curfew seems to be a standard program requirement which is in place for the whole of the diversion program, sometimes three months. In many cases, this requirement is setting up the young people to fail due to their unstable family environment and social circumstances.
- In the past, The Youth Diversion Unit (YDU) completes the assessment for diversion within a two week time frame (in Tennant Creek). However, it can take at least three months for the program providers to initiate the diversion program after the conference. Most programs are at least three months long. In most cases, the whole diversion process can take up to eight months to complete and some of the offences were committed eight months prior. In saying this, police are reviewing their diversion program procedures.
- The length of time this takes has a negative effect on diversion as young people can no longer remember their offending behaviour clearly. As a young man stated to a YJAC member this week, he would rather 'take his chance in court' because diversion takes too long.

The Northern Territory has the highest incarceration rates of indigenous young people than any other Australian jurisdiction

- The majority of the young people incarcerated are Indigenous. The majority of these young people have alcohol and other drug issues. They are also unnecessarily targeted because they tend to engage in anti-social behaviours in the public due to their social circumstances. They are often on remand because of no suitable residential bail alternatives.

Alcohol and drug (AOD) and volatile substance misuse and issues

- There are only few programs, Territory-wide, for young people under 16 with alcohol and other drugs (AOD), volatile substance abuse (VSA) and petrol sniffing misuse but their offending is usually related to substance misuse. There needs to be holistic residential programs with education/training, life skills, anger management, sports and recreation and access to counselling and other health services.
- In the past, the Youth Diversion Unit had a residential program which addressed the needs and issues of young people. In Tennant Creek, young people are able to access counselling for AOD, VSA and mental health through the VSA clinical nurse in town. However, when they return from residential rehabilitation, nothing has changed in their families' circumstances and there is a lack of residential transition program so youth service providers can transition the young person back into school and engage with family members with interventions and strategies that work with the young person.

Therapeutic programs to address criminogenic needs

There is a lack of capacity for programs to address the needs of young offenders generally. There is a need to increase resources to youth generally in areas that can address the issues that lead to offending. We need to be careful to provide programs to all youth i.e. not make the justice system the gatekeeper. ("I can only get help if I am an offender"). This may require a commitment from Northern Territory Government beyond 'youth justice'.

No peak youth body in the Northern Territory for youth issues and youth justice system

This makes it challenging for youth service providers to lobby government for the needs and issues of young people and funding for programs and services that effect these needs and issues. Also, young people are not given a voice at this level of government.

Cyclical nature of offending

In the Barkly region and /or Central Australia, offending and anti-social behaviour increases over the wet season. This is due to people moving into town due to the wet season and school holidays. This is also prevalent in Alice Springs and Central Australia. There is a need for youth service providers to provide programs and services for young people in this period during and after hours.

Training of All Court Officials, Police and Youth Workers

- Young people need to have a constructive experience and to understand their involvement in the YJS. If this occurs, they are less likely to become recidivist offenders.
- Youth workers especially need training in court support, youth advocacy, and being a responsible adult and diversion matters.

Family responsibility agreements

The effectiveness of this voluntary program is questionable when the program focuses on reducing a young person's involvement in the YJS by engaging with family members and siblings but not the young person after he or she has come to the attention of police or the YJS, This program is also only available in Darwin and Alice Springs.

Proposed solutions

Mapping of youth service provider's (YSP) program and service provision in the Northern Territory

This is to capture evidenced-based programs and services of best practice, across the Northern Territory and other jurisdictions. Additionally, it is to identify any duplication, gaps in programs and service provision, especially in regional and remote communities where resourcing of programs and services is difficult, to address the needs and barriers of young people in or about to be involved in the YJS and to identify YSPs that need more support to fulfil their obligations with respect to their funding agreements. (Please note YJAC is currently undertaking this process).

Justice reinvestment program models as a sustainable measure to reform youth justice service delivery especially in regional and remote communities.

Residential and non-residential bail support program

It is proposed that bail support programs can be used as alternatives to detention to address a young person's offending behaviours through a regionalised case management approach that targets young people who may be at risk of being homeless. This may include transitioning from residential rehabilitation programs and an alternative learning program, so that young people can transition to school, education and other training and employment opportunities with support and family involvement. (Please note these effective programs were funded in Tennant Creek in the past and program model and program description can be supplied upon request).

Restorative Justice

It involves monitoring the effectiveness of diversion programs with pre- and post-court referrals to diversion programs to address a young person's recidivist offending and includes re-establishing a Restorative Justice approach to youth justice offending.

Community-based programs

This will involve advocating for adequately resourced early intervention and prevention programs in regional and remote communities, within a case management framework, to circumvent offending related to volatile substance and other substance misuse while focusing on empowering elders and respected community members as 'champions' to ensure a young person's engagement in early intervention and prevention strategies. This should also extend to identifying and advocating for regional and community-based solutions to address truancy social disadvantages, mental health issues and disabilities for young people involved in the youth justice and child protection systems.

Experience of young People in the Barkly region

- Current issues relevant to young people are identified as follows:
 - Volatile Substance Abuse, petrol sniffing, alcohol and other drug (AOD), especially gunja, misuse and associated offending behaviours
 - Offending behaviours
 - Behaviours associated with low levels of literacy and numeracy, due to poor school attendance and lack of family support
 - Bullying and teasing
 - Young people staying at multiple residences without responsible adult supervision, especially to support them to attend school i.e. homelessness.
 - Young people walking the streets at night because they can't go home due to domestic violence and alcohol and other drug misuse by their responsible family members.
 - Young people involved in other YSP programs during school times e.g. EIYBC, diversion programs and YSP camps, hence disruption to their education.
 - Young people going to school but not engaging in class and absconding at recess to substance misuse.

Recommendations

1.	There is an imperative need for a resourced short to medium term residential facility in Tennant Creek operated by culturally experienced and qualified personnel who can develop relationship and rapport with the young people, their family members and elders and respected community members. This requires a case management framework to address the young person's needs, issues and barriers to their school engagement and their relationship with family members, elders and respected community members using interventions and strategies. This is to ensure that their circumstances change when they and their family members, elders and respected community members are enabled for them to return home or a supported and facilitated referral is made to a boarding school or another residential program. This will assist young people transitioning from residential rehabilitation and offer residential bail support for young people with no residential bail alternatives and young people at risk of being homeless.
2.	The Papulu Apparr-kari Aboriginal Corporation, Parent and Community Engagement (PaCE) team is recommending and offering to young people, their family members and Barkly Region schools access to mediation, restorative conferencing and peer mentoring on a voluntary basis to address the bullying and teasing problems, as they have the experience and qualifications to address these issues.
3.	There is also an imperative need for an off campus Alternative Learning Program (ALP) interconnected to Tennant Creek High School and Primary Schools for young people who are seeking and needing extra support with their literacy and numeracy, behaviour management and family engagement and for young people that have been suspended, mainly due to behavioural management issues. This program will involve an innovative literacy and numeracy program, life skills and case management so the young people can transition back to their school with the literacy, numeracy and social skills necessary for them to apply and engage themselves at their school. This needs to be linked to the proposed residential program, providing extra support for young people to attend school and PaCE's engagement with family members, Elders and Respected Community members.
4.	Additionally, the funding of the After Hours Youth Centre (AHYC), to be operational five nights a week, after the successful pilot program in the December/January school holidays 2015/16 was secured in June, but Barkly Regional Council have been constrained, due to their own internal processes. This program is now operational since December 2016 and young people have access to this program and service after hours in a safe, secure, supervised environment and as an alternative to AOD, petrol sniffing and substance misuse and walking the streets at night. This program involves life skills training, workshops discussing the YJS, sport and recreational opportunities with healthy lifestyle messages, access to a qualified and experienced after-hours case manager, so young people and their family members have supported referral options to youth service providers in their area of expertise and supported and facilitated referrals to residential programs through the young person's identified needs, issues and barriers. Also, the AHYC bus provides transport for young people prior to and after the AHYC program.
5.	The AFL Barkly (under 15) Junior football training and Friday night games are partially fulfilling the void of the AHYC with training on Monday and Wednesday afternoon and Friday night football games. The young women's competition is due to commence in 2017. Unfortunately, both programs are inactive due to lack of participation by young people, and strategies for engagement will be reviewed in due course.

6.	Youth Service Provider's Network (YSPN) meeting was re-established this year, in addition to the fortnightly YSP inter-agency case management meetings and the fortnightly Youth Forum Steering Committee meeting. The Steering Committee consists of 10 Indigenous young people who plan the Youth Forum in February/March, 2017, are passionate about issues that affect young people and are involved in developing solutions and attracting additional young people as members. This is due to the PaCE team's intensive work with these young people's family members on a daily basis, to ensure they have active school engagement, ongoing communication with their school and collaboration with other youth service providers. When they participate in programs such as Early Intervention Youth Boot Camps and services, it is evident that they require additional family engagement and/or referrals to support their school attendance, for at least three weeks.
7.	The short to medium residential and family engagement program and the ALP programs were previously funded in the past by the Northern Territory Government and there are statistics, reports and case studies that evidence the success of these programs. These programs need to be adequately resourced again so young people become productive members of their community and engage in school instead of substance misuse, offending behaviours and incarceration. The additional YSP camp programs and services need to operate during school holiday periods.

Justice reinvestment

The YJAC is committed to encourage the Minister to endorse and implement appropriate justice reinvestment initiatives within the Youth Justice framework.

It is the committee's view that justice reinvestment (JR) has the ability to transform the entire system by preventing offending, minimising the remand population and curbing recidivism through re-directing the state budget on incarceration into expenditure back in certain crime-prone neighbourhoods to fund community-based programs with the aim of overcoming the underlying causes of youth offending.

Building on two years of work, the Katherine Youth Justice Reinvestment (KYJR) has consulted with key stakeholders to ensure transformation is grounded in place-based evidence. The Northern Territory Law Society has provided a grant of $65,550 to Australian Red Cross on behalf of the KYJR, enabling the release of an Expression of Interest to engage researchers with expertise in JR. A Service Agreement is currently being negotiated.

In 2017 the KYJR developed Terms of Reference including the aim "to influence Government to direct into justice re-investment at least 50% of savings delivered by a 10% reduction in youth prison numbers." Relationship building with the Minister and the newly formed Territory Families, as well as with National Youth Justice Reinvestment Networks, influential not-for profits and Justice Reinvestment expertise is supporting this emerging and peak group to be well informed and positioned to lead genuinely effective change benefiting the community and Territory broadly.

In 2017 KYJR members engaged with and supported the Royal Commission into the Protection and Detention of Children in the Northern Territory, leveraging a membership of 70 Community, Social, Education, Justice, Legal and Health Service Sector Members including Indigenous, Youth, and LGBTI members to encourage broad and representative community contribution. Throughout Youth Week and Law Week KYJR surveyed community, youth and families about their perceptions of safety and the justice response (survey outcomes are pending), and provided education and information about how YJR could contribute to a healthy and vibrant community.

KYJR has also supported and contributed to the University of NSW's Comparative Youth Penalty Project which shares state and territory YJR progress building a cohesive National Voice, and the NTCOSS Making Justice Work initiative bringing together stakeholders to engage with and provide feedback on their evidence based approach to 'law and order' in the community.

KYJR Stakeholders continue to include members with influence, skills, expertise and ability to commit to a long-term project. These members are Traditional Elders and Youth, organisations such as NAAJA, NT Legal Aide Commission, Red Cross, Anglicare, Relationships Australia, Wurli Wurlinjang Health Services, Banatjahl Strong Women's Group, Charles Darwin University the Stolen Generation, YMCA and the NT Youth Justice Advisory Committee, and Local, State and Federal Government Departments such as NT Police, Education, Prime Minister and Cabinet and Health. A YJAC member facilitated communication with the KYRJ group.

Moving toward the close of 2017 the KYJR looks forward to commencing research in the Katherine Region and supporting Youth to amplify their voice in co-designing a stronger future for the community.

YJAC annual report contributions

Electronic monitoring

Electronic monitoring in relation to court orders

YJAC last reported that electronic monitoring has been introduced in the financial year 2015-2016 as an option for courts to monitor and supervise youths on bail.

Statistics provided to us by Community Corrections indicate that there were 55 young people who were connected to an electronic monitoring device between 1 September 2016 and 23 July 2017. Of these 55 young people, the overwhelming majority had electronic monitoring imposed by courts as part of their bail conditions. Only a small number of young people continued to have electronic monitoring imposed on them as part of their sentencing orders (three on good behaviour bonds, two on suspended detention orders and two on alternative detention orders).

Although there is no consistent data as to how often or where electronic monitoring is imposed by court across different regions in the Northern Territory, it is our understanding that electronic monitoring can be utilised in all urban and major regional centres, including Katherine. In the more remote parts of the Northern Territory, the availability and suitability for electronic monitoring will be assessed on a case-by-case basis, at the request of the court.

It should be noted that electronic monitoring has been used as a tool to monitor other conditions of bail, such as curfew or a requirement to stay away from certain places. While it may be difficult to measure its effectiveness at this early stage, the committee identifies that there is a potential advantage in using electronic monitoring as a less intrusive means to conduct surveillance when compared to other means such as routine police checks at the residence during early hours of the morning.

If the Youth Justice Legislation Amendment Bill 2017 is passed in parliament later this year, we anticipate Territory Families will take over the supervision of youths in relation to any court imposed bail and court orders in the next financial year. It is the intention of the sub-committee to continue to collect data and identify any issues with regards to electronic monitoring.

Electronic monitoring in relation to police bail

On the other hand, this financial year also saw the introduction of the Bail Amendment Act 2017 which effectively gives police members additional power to require an accused person to wear an electronic monitoring device as part of their bail conditions. The Bill was passed and became operational as of late March 2017.

Whilst it was not the intention of this legislative amendment to apply exclusively to youths, this has potential implications for youths because they can be subject to more onerous police bail conditions as a result of the implementation of this new legislation. To our understanding, no young person has been issued with police monitoring bail before the end of the financial year. We will continue to liaise with Police to collect data to assess the utility and enhance the effectiveness of this bail option in the next financial year.

YJAC Issues Register for the YJAC annual report 2016/17

Background

In 2015/16 the YJAC reinstated the YJS Issues Register for mainly NGOs working in the YJS at the 'grass roots' level, the Central Australian Youth Justice Committee (CAYJ), the Top End Youth Justice Coalition and community members to have the ability to voice their issues, needs and concerns in the YJS for YJAC to discuss, address and propose solutions and advise the Minister if required.

In 2016/17, the issues raised and proposed solutions should only complement Territory Families' youth detention and child protection reforms and the involvement of 'grass roots' NGO case managers and workers, especially from regional and remote communities, to have access to YJAC members and input through the reestablishment of the YJAC YJS Issues Register.

Furthermore, CAYJ, NTCOSS and the Top End Youth Justice Coalition, have the ability to voice their issues, needs and concerns in the YJS for YJAC to discuss, address and propose solutions to advise the Minister, through the YJS Issues Register format.

Issues raised in the 2016/17 reporting period

- YP (young people) with mental health issues, disabilities and facing social disadvantage, also involved in the YJ CP (child protection) and systems.
- Tennant Creek and Barkly YP remanded in detention because of no suitable residential bail alternatives. They are away from Elders, Respected Community Members, family members, country and current and ongoing YSP case management involvement and support, from their home community, whilst in detention.
- A young man from the Barkly region was remanded in custody for a week due to offending in Alice Springs. He is a first time offender. He was issued with a GPS electronic monitoring device. He breached his bail because he did not return home, and was remanded at Alice Springs Youth Detention Centre for another week and returned to Tennant Creek with his grandmother and the electronic monitoring device was refitted. Police were adamant that the device be refitted, when negotiations were ongoing with NTCS and PaCE for the timing of refitting, due, to family member involvement and PaCE support.
- Don Dale Youth Detention Centre visit 15/04/2017 involving lack of security, scrutiny of visiting party, visiting room conditions and conditions for detainees in high security, detainee's being assigned a case worker and the case worker engaging proactively with the young person through risk and needs assessments.
- Lack of consistency in sentencing, the Judge berating, belittling a young man and a family member, when his and her full circumstances were not divulged in court and further traumatising them both.
- A twelve year old male having a bail condition to undertake urinalysis for petrol and other AOD substance misuse, whilst in a VSA residential program.
- Young women from Central Australia being held in police holding cells for multiple nights due to the lack of segregated arrangements at the Alice Springs Youth Detention Centre. This is inappropriate given their proximity to adults (including men and intoxicated adults) and the fact that this goes against Royal Commission into Aboriginal Deaths in Custody recommendations, and UN Conventions on Rights of the Child.
- Young women from Central Australia being sentenced to Don Dale due to the lack of segregated arrangements at the Alice Springs Youth Detention Centre.
- Lack of meaningful, high level consultation with Aboriginal organisations by the Minister regarding Youth Justice Reforms.
- Cases where young women who have been picked up by police for breach of bail (for non violent crimes) are being handcuffed, which organisations feel is unnecessary and heavy handed.
- Feedback on what process was used to select YJAC members and whether YJAC can give updates to Making Justice Work and Central Australian Youth Justice (and other networks and coalitions) on its work.

The YJAC Issues Register allows community members, NGOs, YSPs and YJ committees and forum members to raise their YJ issues and concerns with YJAC members, so they can be addressed in an YJAC committee meeting or then raised with the Minister.

YJAC members visit to Don Dale Youth Detention Centre (DDYDC)

Purpose of visit

The purpose of this visit to the DDYDC on 20 June 2017, undertaken under s204 of the Act, was to inspect the completed 'Make it Safe' refurbishment up-grades at the centre, and to learn about programs and services aiming to rehabilitate youth detainees and address their offending behaviours.

The visit served as an induction for new YJAC members to the physical environment of the youth detention centre and gave all members an opportunity to consider how the Australian Juvenile Justice Administrators' Youth Justice Standards and Guidelines are being practically implemented within the centre.

Overview of Visit

The superintendent took the YJAC members on a tour of the DDYDC, including "H Block" and "M Block" (the new sport and recreation block).

YJAC Members' positive observations of DDYDC

Territory Families leadership, including DDYDC superintendent, leading the DDYDC refurbishment, appear to have addressed practical support measures to change the immediate physical environment, for example :

- Removal of bars on windows and use of Perspex;
- Refurbished/freshly painted cells;
- Landscaping undertaken to make the centre appear more pleasing;
- Development of the sport and recreation space in M Block has created opportunities for young people to participate in a range of programs e.g. tech studies, creative use of the art space, and sport and recreation opportunities, such as the cinema and basketball court;
- The mural and other art work in M Block is impressive;
- Tivendale School is functioning and operational ;
- YJAC members observed an YJO actively engaging and obviously having a rapport and relationship with "young fellas";
- Continuation of the "Elders Visiting Program".

YJAC Members' concerns about DDYDC

- Although the capacity of the HSU is 16, it was observed that there were 19 young people accommodated during the visit and a number of 10-17 year olds were cohabiting. As well as the issue of crowding, there was a concern about younger people being exposed to others with longer experience of the youth justice system;
- The impact of staff working entitlements on the routines of young people e.g. young people must return to their cells during morning tea and afternoon tea time so that staff can have breaks; and young people spending 12 hours in their cells (from the end of YJO shift at approximately 5-6pm, to early the next morning);
- Vacancies in case management and psychologist positions;
- How the cultural safety of young people when away from country and access to family members is addressed;
- Ongoing detainee complaints about food /meals being unsatisfactory (it was noted that the failure of the commercial kitchen in the centre to meet operating standards may be a contributing factor);
- Some areas of the centre still look like a jail, for example, the activity space. Members suggested that on their next visit they would like time to also visit the Visits Centre, the High Security Unit (HSU) and the school.

Conclusion

YJAC members want to acknowledge the recent, significant and welcome change arising from the Youth Justice portfolio now sitting with Territory Families. We understand that reforms and change will take time to implement, especially in the context of waiting for the release of the Royal Commission into the Protection and Detention of Children in the Northern Territory Recommendations.

It should be noted however, YJAC members still have concerns arising from our visit to DDYDC, as mentioned above. These may be resolved in part by YJAC receiving regular reports from Northern Territory Government agencies about topics including:

- staff education and training programs;
- case management programs and services;
- programs and services available in detention centres to stop, reduce and address offending behaviours;
- programs that address the cultural safety and support of young people, while away from their own 'country'; and
- the operation of the Elders Visiting Program and the Official Visitors Program.

Register of Appropriate Support Persons

The Register of Appropriate Support Persons provides the Northern Territory Police with access to support persons who can be present and assist unaccompanied young people when they are required to attend interviews and engage with police in relation to possible criminal matters

The appropriate support person acts as an independent observer for the young person, by providing appropriate support and non-legal guidance. In the Northern Territory the Register of Appropriate Support Persons is operated by the Australian Red Cross.

The success of the Register of Appropriate Support Persons is in the recruitment, training and availability of appropriate people who are committed to volunteering their time. The Australian Red Cross partners with key stakeholders, particularly the NT Police and NT Department of Territory Families and legal organisations such as North Australian Aboriginal Justice Agency and Central Australian Aboriginal Legal Aid Service to ensure that the volunteers are appropriately trained and able to fulfil their functions.

Maintaining the Register of Appropriate Support Persons is a key function of the Youth Justice Advisory Committee.

Data received by the committee showed that over 2016-17 there were 39 volunteers who collectively provided 144.5 hours of support to 136 young people across 171 call-outs.

We note that there has been a significant decrease in the hours of support and the number of call outs, compared to the statistics for the year 2015-2016. It is the Committee's intention to continue to work with Red Cross and other stakeholders with the view to improve the program and identify any systemic issues or barriers to young people being supported by the program.

Sentenced Youth Boot Camp Program

On the 16 November 2016, YJAC members inspected the Loves Creek Outstation. This was to get a briefing on the Sentenced Youth Boot Program (SYBC), obtain an overview of the current BushMob program at Loves Creek and to consider the long term potential of the BushMob program versus the early intervention boot camp program.

YJAC members were impressed by structured program model that involved the skill development of the young people, that not only included work ready skills, but gaining life skills through a case management framework and the potential of work opportunities with BushMob in the future. This is similar to the 'sentenced to a job' program, where young men can gain skills and be proactive whilst on the program through their involvement in training, skill development and employment routines and structures.

Additionally, BushMob engaging local people as role models in a culturally responsive program as Cultural safety is an imperative.

However, YJAC members have a concern that bail or an approved program as an alternative to detention needs to incorporate an effective through care case management approach. This is to develop realistic, facilitated and supported, through care and post release case management plans, in consultation with Territory Families, Youth Justice (YJ), NT Correctional Services (NTCS), BushMob caseworkers, Elders, family members, respected community members, youth service providers, the young person's Community and the young person himself or herself.

This has significant impact upon young person's return to their home community, so that they can utilise their education, training, skills and their life skills with routines and structures gained from their residential program experience, through a facilitated and supported, through care and post release case management plan and engagement with a case manager/ worker, post release. This will also enable them to adhere to their NTCS supervised orders and/or become productive members of their community, with ongoing case management support.

BushMob is offering a further opportunity with casual employment so the young fellas have an opportunity to be gainfully employed with skills and training they have gained through the BushMob program as an alternative to returning to their community.

This is also to strengthen the young person and their family member's involvement in a case management approach, so they are actively engaged in education and training or gainfully employed, through facilitated support with a case worker, to ensure they are occupied and to reduce their recidivist offending behaviours.

Youth Justice Data

To assist the Committee to perform its function we would like to seek a quantitative and qualitative performance report from Territory Families as part of a standing agenda item for YJAC meetings. This performance report need not be extensive but should provide the committee with the details of the current business within the Youth Justice system and recent improvements, risks and changes.
