I register my complete opposition to a VAD in the NT or anywhere.

I highly encourage our political leaders to invest time, effort and money into palliative care and positive mental health support for those at risk.

Cheapening life is not the Australian way.

Encouraging individuals to end their lives is not a step forward but a step towards a hellish indifference to the value and sanctity of human life.

As a Bible-believing Christian I must add that we will all one day stand before a supreme Judge for what we have done on earth; myself and yourself.
Taking life and encouraging the taking of life is a form of murder which we must not give in to. It is indeed a sin.

No good can come from bad law like a VAD policy of death and hopelessness.

I work across many remote Aboriginal communities and I can assure you that there are many, many young people with mental health and drug issues out here. Laws like a VAD are suicide triggers for some of the most vulnerable people in our community.

Please do NOT vote in favour of this regressive and inhumane law.

Rob Clements,
