Subject: Communication of immediate security concerns

QUESTION

Mr Speaker, in relation to immediate security concerns for Parliament House, can you please provide to the committee how you will ensure that those matters are appropriately communicated to MLA and DLA staff and other people who are in the building?

ANSWER:

Department of the Legislative Assembly has a Parliament House Emergency Procedures manual that is updated annually. This document is distributed to all building occupants annually via email. It is available in hard copy at the Security Front Desk or via request to the Department of the Legislative Assembly Security Unit. Building occupants can comment on these procedures through their Emergency Planning Committee representative.

The document provides guidelines to building occupants on how to respond to an emergency and describes the roles and responsibilities of the Parliament House Emergency Control Organisation.
