Question 4-4: How many public servants have not had their contracts renewed at each government agency since August 26 2012?

ANSWER

[Output Group and Output to which the Question refers]: 5.2 – Workforce Planning and Development

A fixed term contract is by definition one where there is not normally an obligation to renew the contract, but this occurs if the circumstances at the time warrant. Contracts are not renewed for a variety of reasons, but primarily because of the reason it was made fixed term in the first place.

Attached are tables showing fixed term contract separations for the period 26 August 2012 to 31 March 2013, and for comparison purposes, 26 August 2011 to 31 March 2012.
