It is so important that lawmakers responsible for passing any VAD law are mindful of the fact that terminally ill people are not the only ones who are suffering unbearable pain and misery . They need to be mindful of many others who may not be terminally ill but are going through the same needless torture of their hell on earth all the same especially those poor souls in advanced old age who have been let down by the VAD laws so far passed in Australia supposedly an advanced nation . There Is a need to understand that these poor souls in constant pain and discomfort and having to depend on others for all their needs including the need to take care of their own personal hygiene may be desperate for their forever rest . Please Let them go when they themselves know better than anyone else when the time is right . It is cruel and barbaric to let them endure all this pain and misery needlessly in the name of “sanctity of life “ . Not everyone wants to live to a hundred . Quality of life is far more important than longevity of life and leaders lacking foresight , wisdom and compassion are unable to come up with sensible solutions for these issues . Good and wise govt leaders able to spare a thought for the sufferings of others should rightly pass a sensible VAD law that is helpful for the terminally ill but can also be a blessing for those poor souls in advanced old age . Surely it is not asking too much for those of us in advanced old age to be given our basic human right to choose to go for our forever rest free from anymore pain and suffering when we know the time is right . Sincerely , Poh L
