We want to show our support.

Please continue to show leadership and stand firmly for the children, not for the political and ideological outcomes of a few. Culture shouldn't be weaponised when it suits a few activists and ignored when funding is free flowing and the elite are financially compensated. I don't hear the cry 'racist' when jobs, funding, grants or other services are racially based. The double standard is ridiculous. There is a reason why children are in OOHC and it has nothing to do with culture.

Children are children first, have the right to a safe and loving home with opportunities in life second and no amount of stupidity, activist hand wringing or invented rainbow serpents is going to change that.

If these laws aren't changed the way you plan on changing them (good on you and please make sure they pass), it will provide for a blue print of how to weaponize culture, create the next generation of disadvantaged children and create a race based approach to how those children are viewed. There is a reason why carer numbers are dropping and no carer (unless monetary driven) wants to take in an aboriginal child.

The system MUST be activist blind and firmly in the children's corner. They didn't choose the life they were dealt, but they should have a say in their life outcomes for the better.

Thanks
Katerina and Graeme Tidswell
