Dear Committee,

I would like all those advocates and family members to answer a simple question. Would they administer the drug to their sick person. If they couldn't do it why would you ask a medical professional to do it. Also why are there no figures released on the number of people who go through the hoops but at the last minute decide not to. There is good palliative care this is an obscene idea and I guess as a young person watching the movie Soylent Green affected me.
